

REAL TIME EXAMPLES

1. High Priority High Severity

1. The product added to cart of an e-commerce website is not visible on product page.
2. A run time error during the normal operation of the software, which would cause the application to quit abruptly.
3. Suppose you are doing online shopping and filled payment information's, but after submitting the form, you get message like "Order has been cancelled".
4. The login button of Exam filling form website is not working.

2. High Priority Low Severity

1. While developing a site for Pepsi, by mistake a logo sign of coke is embedded. This does not affect functionality in any way but has high priority to be fixed.
2. If company logo is not properly displayed on their website.
3. If the company name (collage name) misspelled in the website.
4. The logo of company's welcome page is distorted.

3. Low Priority High Severity

1. If we have typical scenario in which the application get crashed but that scenario exists rarely.
2. User click on rarely used link and is crashed.
3. If the application is crashing on passing very large input for processing.
4. There are some buttons on website which are overlapping.
5. Incase application works perfectly for 50000 sessions but beings to crash after higher number of sessions. This problem needs to be fixed but not immediately.
6. Any report generation not getting completed 100% - Means missing Title, Title Columns but having proper data enlisted. We could have this fixed in the next build but missing report columns is a High Severity defect.

4. Low Priority Low Severity

1. A spelling mistake on the page of site which is not frequently visited.
2. The colour of any text does not match the theme of the website.
3. There is a mistake like "You have registered success" instead of successfully, success is written.